The Oregon Home Builders Association is offering a training course for complying with the new exterior wall envelope requirements. The new code change requires all new construction, along with some remodels and additions, to install a drainage gap between the siding and the water resistive barrier. Exceptions do exist for specialty products and installation techniques.

These requirements began January 1st, though a three month grace period has been granted which expires at the end of March.

Join us to review the new code language and also see complying products and techniques.

This class counts towards 2 hours of Construction Contractors Board continuing education credits.

This class is brought to you by a grant from the Department of Consumer and Business Services: Building Codes Division
